

Abridged Biography | Dr Noluthando Toni

Noluthando Toni is the Director of Teaching Development in the Learning and Teaching Collaborative for Success Division at Nelson Mandela University. She was the Director of the Teaching and Learning Centre (TLC) at the University of Fort Hare (UFH) from February 2012 to July 2018. Prior to joining UFH she was a lecturer, senior lecturer, head of department (for Foundation Phase Studies) and the Director of School for Initial Teacher Education in the Faculty of Education at Nelson Mandela Metropolitan University.

Noluthando is passionate about the advancement of learning and teaching in higher education, particularly the transformation of curriculum for the advancement of learning opportunities for all students.

Noluthando's career path started from being a primary school teacher, to becoming an academic and teacher educator through to taking up leadership roles in academic development in higher education. The common thread in her trajectory is learning and teaching. Her published work that links with teaching development includes aspects of reflective practice and managing the link between Academic Development and the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning. Noluthando also has a keen interest in the study of Women Leadership in Higher Education and has co-published a number of articles in this area.
