

Abridged Biography | Ms Nobubele Phuza

Nobubele Phuza is a lecturer in the Nelson Mandela University, Department of Sociology and Anthropology under the DHET New Generation Academics Programme (nGAP). In 2019, Nobubele received the Department of Science and Innovation Albertina-Sisulu Fellowship awarded for Masters research on gender and women.

She has since graduated with a MA (Sociology) Cum Laude. She is currently working on her PhD on student protest fields with a particular focus on gender conflict and its implications for building complex emancipatory liberation for students.
