

Abridged Biography | Prof Peter Mbatl

Professor Peter Mbatl is currently the Vice Chancellor of the Sefako Makgatho Health Sciences. He has extensive experience in higher education executive leadership, having served as Vice Chancellor of the University of Venda, Group Executive Livestock at the Agricultural Research Council, Campus Principal of the QwaQwa campus of the University of the Free State and also Deputy Pro-Vice Chancellor Academic at the Botho University in Gaborone, Botswana.

In recognition of his work, Prof. Mbatl has won several national, continental and international awards including among others the RUFORUM IMPRESSA Award: a recognition award to Professor Mbatl for excellence in research, institutional transformation and building Africa's human resource capacity in 2017 in Lilongwe Malawi. Mbatl is an astute researcher and was an NRF-rated researcher for over 15 years. He has presented papers at several national and international conferences, and supervised several Masters and doctoral students. He has published widely in peer reviewed scientific journals in the areas of immunoparasitology and diagnostics.
